

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus of simplified navigation. Web content is presented through the simplified interface. The simplified interface may be navigated using directional input to highlight or choose a desired navigation option. Multiple layers of a matrix may be accessed through selection of individual cells in each matrix layer of the simplified interface making web content navigable on a television.